Oldest Citizen Dead.

Mrs. Postill, mother of our respected citizen William Postill, passed away on Friday morning at the residence of her son aged 88 years. Deceased was stricken with paralysis on Wednesday night last and never fully regained consciousness. Mr. and Mrs. Postill were out at the ranch and word was at once sent to them, but they did not arrive in town until Saturday morning.

The funeral on Sunday afternoon was largely attended. Rev. Mr. Goodfield performed the ceremony as Mrs. Postill was a life long member of the Baptist church. Rev. Canon Hinchliffe assisting.

The following gentlemen acted as pall bearers: Messrs. G. W. Greene, W. Elmer, W. M. Jarvis, T. F. Ellis, J. Grant and J. Wright. Interment took place in Red Deer Cemetery.

Deceased was born in Malton, Yorkshire, England, in the same year as the late Queen Victoria, and came to Canada with her husband and five children some 47 years ago. They removed to the Okanagan Valley, B. C. 33 years ago. Mr. Postill, Sr. dying at a short time after reaching the western province. Mrs. Postill encountered all the hardships of the west in those early days, the boys packing provisions over the mountains from New Westminster for years until posts were established nearer home at Vernon, B. C. Always cheerful, resourceful, and with the fear of God in her heart she dared the solitude of the wilds and brought her family up to be respected citizens and with the advent of civilization a fair competence was made for each of them. Two years ago, still hale and hearty, she moved to Red Deer to finish her days, passing away full of years as above stated. Besides William Postill, of this town, one member of the family survives her, namely Mrs. Lambley, who resides at the Hand Hams, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Alfred Postill, of Vernon, B. C. The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Postill and the family in their bereavement.

Police Court.

The large council chamber at the Fire Hall was crowded Monday evening with people from Penhold and Red Deer to hear the evidence in the case laid by George Fleming, of Penhold, against Miss Wilkins, teacher of that village, for thrashing young Harold Fleming an eight year old scholar. George W. Greene conducted the case for Mr. Fleming while Miss Wilkins was represented by P. J. Nolan, Calgary. The case was over piling some wood and a promised holiday in connection. Several boys piled some wood and fuel were to see a celebration when it was finished. Several boys took a holiday against the wishes of the teacher and were requested to bring notes from home. Young Fleming said he didn't like to. The teacher gave him a thrashing with a quirt, a ladies' riding whip. He went muttering to his seat, she called him out and gave him another. He then put on his hat, she asked him to take it off. He refused. She whipped him again, then he took his seat and when her back was turned ran out of school. He went home and told his father. Mr. Fleming came to the school, asked to see the whip, and before the school told the teacher she should be ashamed of herself to thrash the child with such a whip. It was shown that the trustees provided the whip, and that the wood had a bad reputation. The boy's braces were broken and his shirt torn, but he said himself he did that in trying to get away from the teacher. The teacher, who appeared to be a quiet, dignified, but determined little body, gave her version of the affair in a straightforward manner showing that she had openly defied him and she was compelled to thrash him. She did not lose her temper. In summing up the case the Justices exonerated the teacher from all blame and dismissed the case with costs against Mr. Fleming.

The Reformatory.

The Saturday News, Edmonton, says:

"Red Deer, High River and Pincher Creek are in the running for the reformatory to be established by the provincial government."

This will be news to the people of Red Deer. We have been turned down with a dull, ghastly thud so often that we are getting used to it. Our fond hopes for the capital were blighted by an early and severe frost. We were chased up a tree when we tried to get the normal school. Peter Talbot said "hands off the experimental farm, that's my property" and he got it. The lunatic asylum? Well, a citizen remarked the other day that we didn't want it as we had so many darn lunatics in town, including the Editor of the News, that there wouldn't be room in the institution for anybody else. No, no, gentlemen, we don't want the asylum, but give us the jail; that's what we want. No one in Red Deer goes to jail. What we want is settlers, but no more dull thuds, please.

Fire Visits Sedgewick

Sedgewick, Oct. 19.—Early this morning fire broke out in the implement warehouse of Matchett & Hampton and completely destroyed the building and contents. The fire spread to the dwelling of C. F. Arkinstall and the newly completed Massey-Harris warehouse and destroyed both buildings. Arkinstall's furniture store was saved by the citizens by means of hard work with buckets; the fire was confined to the above buildings.

Fortunately there was no wind or the loss would have been much larger. While trying to save the Massey-Harris building Chas. Gammon and S. McAllister were struck by falling timber and received severe scalp wounds. The losses are as follows: Matchett & Hampton, $4,000 (insurance, $1,500); Arkinstall, $50; no insurance; Massey-Harris, $400; no insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown as there had been no one in the building after six o'clock last evening.

HAVE YOU AN ACCIDENT POLICY?

If not, we want to say that we can deliver the goods. We have a most attractive policy that insures against all kinds of accidents; also a sickness policy, that for a mere nominal sum makes you safe against a long list of common diseases. Grand View avenue Improvement.

Steps are being taken to grade the Hill at the North end of Grandview avenue which will connect that road with the Mann street hill. The work will be undertaken immediately in charge of Mr. Ira Brisbin. The following property owners have subscribed and paid $10 each: H. W. Hoskins, F. Krause, C. J. B. Ward, Ira Brisbin, W. H. Heighton, total $50, which fund is held by the bank of Commerce, G. A. Callison, also gives two days work with his team. To make a complete job, it is estimated about $150 would be required and it is hoped that all holding property in this neighborhood will come forward and put up their share for an improvement which will be a great benefit both to the land holders and residents of that part of the hill.

Memorial Hospital.

To the Editor of the News,

Dear Sir:—The Red Deer Memorial Hospital is making an appeal to the people through the churches of the town and surrounding country for financial assistance and is asking that Sunday the 27th inst. (Thanksgiving Sunday) be given as Hospital Sunday, the free-will offering of the day to be for the Hospital.

May I be permitted on behalf of the Board to state a few facts in support of our appeal. I need not emphasize the pressing need of such an institution. This was most keenly felt during the few months that the Hospital was closed during the past winter. This is the first appeal made by the Board for financial aid this year. Following up our experiment of last year, instead of making a personal appeal from door to door, as is common in most Hospitals, we are asking an offering in this way, thus leaving each one free to do as he is disposed. I may say that the principal reason for our appeal at this time is to meet a special expenditure that we have put on the Hospital this year. During the past few months several much needed improvements have been made in the building, among which we would mention: The completion of the attic, affording greater accommodation for the staff, a heating system for the attic; the building of a first class fire escape; the installation of electric lights, sinks, and septic drain and tank, and plumbing completed for connection with the sewerage system, which is procurable. These were all improvements that were absolutely required, and we need not dwell on the fact that small Hospital, an exceptionally well equipped and creditable institution.

This work has cost approximately $2500. Through the splendid loyalty of our late President, Dr. Gaetz, who contributed the magnificent sum of $1000, to this work, and by the very generous gifts of Messrs. James Ross, John Ross, and J. H. Asken, of Winnipeg, who gave $200 and $150 respectively, this amount has been reduced to about $1500, and this we hope to see very materially decreased if not wiped out entirely in the near future by the people of our town and district. In this connection we beg to remind the general public that the Hospital returns show that a great number of patients treated in the Red Deer Hospital come from points over ten miles distant, and many of these are our own patients. We, therefore, feel justified in asking the kind assistance of the surrounding communities, whose people may need the comfort and care of such an institution.

We can at this time make this appeal with the greater confidence because of the eminently satisfactory condition of affairs. We have a well equipped and comfortable Hospital, an efficient and obliging staff, Red Deer has an institution that the people may well be proud of, and an invaluable asset. We are glad to be able to report that so far the maintenance is concerned it should be no great burden on the public, as at the present rate it will soon be self supporting. The Property has been kept free from mortgage, and on the building we owe only the small amount mentioned above, which we hope this time to overtake.

The Hospital was instituted by the people, the benefits accrue to the people, and we confidently believe that the people will give it their loyal support.

Yours faithfully,
S. N. CARSCALLEN
President, Red Deer Memorial Hospital.

Next Year's Council.

Considerable speculation exists as to the personnel of the council for 1908. So far as the News is concerned we are of the opinion that it would be difficult to find a more representative body than the council of 1907. To the Mayor and Council the present has been a very trying year. The big improvements in water works and sewerage construction has taken a great deal of the time of the members and the stringency of the money market has caused considerable anxiety, still our town has stood the strain well and has been piloted along under the guidance of Mayor Gaetz into safe waters. We are confident we voice the sentiments of a large majority of the ratepayers when we say the entire council should be returned by acclamation. Mayor Gaetz has expressed a determination to retire for personal reasons. Can the town spare him? At the present time when large undertakings are yet incomplete we claim he cannot be spared and he should make a personal sacrifice for the benefit of the community at large. If our best citizens can be persuaded to represent the town on the Council board and to sink all personal feelings in the public welfare we are bound to be prosperous.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 23rd, 1907.

ONLY FOR SHOW.

We hear a lot about the Provincial government prosecuting the C. P. R. for breaking the Lord's Day Act, about punishing the lumber barons for combining to the detriment of trade, about investigations into the beef trusts, about pushing the coal corporations, etc., but what does it all amount to? Nothing more than a mutual admiration society. The Liberal press are never tired of lauding the attorney general and other ministers to the skies, still nothing was done with the lumber people when they burned important documents. They have been before the courts several times. Each time less interest is taken in the proceedings and in a short time the question will be allowed to die a natural death. It has served its purpose. The government has been lauded and glorified. The beef commission was going to do wonderful things. Pat Burns laughed at them. He is a pretty shrewd man, is Pat. What good did the commission do us? It is claimed that the government is fearless in its efforts to guard the rights of the people. If that is the case, give us our rights in the shape of our lands, our forests, our minerals, our coal fields, our lakes, our streams. Give us our rights. A pretty bunch to claim fearlessness and to have the interest of the people at heart.

JAPANESE NOT WANTED.

The Japanese are flocking into Canada because the Laurier government applied to the British government to extend its treaty with Japan so as to cover Canada. Up till last year the Japanese only had the right of free access to the British Isles, and any law passed by Canada to exclude Japanese or Chinese would have been effective, but the Ottawa government asked that Canada be brought under the British treaty, and passed an act in the Canadian House of Commons endorsing the British Treaty. We have Chinese and Japanese in Canada because the Canadian governments want them, and because Canadians employ them and trade with them. If the Canadian government wanted to keep them out they would not be here, and if Canadians did not run to them with business they could not live here. It is said that a Chinese recently carried $3,000 home to China that he had made in Red Deer. That is the reason why Chinese are in Canada. They find Canadians dead easy.

Mr. Hyman drew his pay as Minister of Public Works down to the end of August in this year. That is ten months and more after he ceased to perform the duties of the position. For more than nine months of this time he was out of the country, and but for a supposed mistake in his letter of resignation he would not have been a member of parliament. Mr. Hyman is a rich man, but he drew from the people of Canada during that period of absence $5,250.

An Outrage.

Again the Scott Government of Saskatchewan is getting in its dirty work. Mr. Bradshaw the opposition candidate, was elected by 4 votes over Attorney General Turgeon, but more than three hundred ballots were tied up awaiting proof of the voters right to cast them which proof, the law provides, must be given before a court of revision, composed of a deputy returning officer and a justice of the peace. When the court of revision met what was the surprise of the electors to see one of Mr. Turgeon's scrutineers, R. McLeod J. P., a faithful Scott "worker" and a prominent figure in Turgeon's post election procession, take the bench as the justice of the peace by whom the fate of the contested ballots was to be settled!

Of course counsel for Mr. Bradshaw vigorously protested against this outrage of British justice and the commonest kind of common decency, but the harshness of the officer was such that he retained his position, despite the uproar created by the spectators gathered at the back of the hall!

Is there no limit to this sort of thing?

We claim that there is, and the electors of this great west are dangerously near that limit. The signs of the times all point to an upheaval in the near future in Saskatchewan that will sweep the Scott government from power, and it cannot come too soon.

Captain T. Berville Thomas of The Canadian Mail has announced himself as a candidate for parliament to succeed Dr. McIntyre of Strathcona. The captain may be described as an independent progressive Conservative. Under the captain's "Some Things Farmers should remember" The Mail, addressing the farmers, says:

"Unless you trample under your feet party politics and put your country before your party and use your influence and your votes in the interest of the farmers, you will always be the under dog. It is the hide bound party politicians that have robbed you and are robbing you to-day."

"The farmers of New Zealand are forty per cent. and their representatives in parliament are forty per cent."

"The people of New Zealand own the railroads, coal mines and public lands. No land there for the speculator at $1 an acre and at from $10 to $15 for the settler, but have government loans to settlers at about one-third the interest the farmers of Canada have to pay. Government fire and life insurance, government gold storage warehouses, packing houses, wholesale warehouses in the principal cities of England and Scotland, and the farmer gets the full price of his product, less the commission. They have no multi-millionaire packers or railroad stockholders, because the people own them and their wealth is more evenly distributed."

THE LETTERS OF QUEEN VICTORIA.

London Oct. 16.—The London papers this morning publish elaborate extracts from the "Letters of Queen Victoria," which make their appearance to-day by authority of King Edward. These letters form an interesting autobiography which, without revealing any important political matters not already known, present a deeply absorbing picture of the queen's life and character from her own lips. Editorially the papers express their grateful thanks to the King for the selection from nearly 600 volumes at Windsor in which the Queen's letters and papers are classified and indexed.

J. J. Hill after the C. N. R.

Toronto, Oct. 18.—A report reached the city this morning that J. J. Hill, through J. P. Morgan, New York had offered seventy five million dollars for the Canadian Northern railway and the Charter rights. According to one story the offer which would mean a profit of fifty millions has already been considered by Toronto magnates and rejected. At the head office of the company here, the story was neither denied or credited. President MacKenzie has been in New York for a week, and is being joined there to day by Vice President Mann.

A SONG OF CONTENTMENT.

In the Gulf that once was current in the muscled of our... We were told that any day could hit the target every shot. We were told that if we failed from mere neglect we could reach... We were told that the world's success was all to come and wait and preach, we were taught that careful saving of our pennies was the thing; We should cut out all the frivolous youth should never have his fling. Grind and grub and grub and grind—these were sure to win the race. But today we learn that riches are a terrible disgrace.

Once the man who made some money was considered to have done something worthy emulation by the other. Famed to go for just, but now. But would rather stick to business, was the hero of the day. In the market books they loaned us from the libraries of yore. All the wealth which entered in the boy who swept the store. Now he'd better be a horse thief or a bank thief, don't you know. Then a light was shining watching for his bank account to grow.

Tis a pleasant change, I take it, for beneath the old regime, though I grieved for glory's glamour, I could never grab a gleam. Something told me I should not, although I lost McDougal's hand. Make a fortune—I'm delighted they've discovered. Now, when I am broke and shiftless, who, when I was broke to borrow, was an angel as to lend. I shall await with conscious righteousness, specific cause of which is the thought that I'm honest, 'cause I kept from selling rich."

—Strickland W. Gillian in Judge.

Mutual Recognition.

An orator and lawyer who lives at Galesburg, Ill., wrote a book which his publisher, in order to give the author an exact idea of how it would look, made up into a dummy with the regular cover, but with blank pages. The orator went to Chicago and called on one of his friends.

"George," said the author, putting the book open on his knee, "as far as my acquaintance with literature goes this book is best suited or any for your mentality."

The other turned over the blank pages gravely. Finally he said: "Carry, after a somewhat careful examination of this work I am forced to the conclusion, without looking at the title page, that you are the author."

Didn't Like His Behavior.

A Scotchman and his four children entered a fine fashionable restaurant in London. Sundry ordered a bottle of lemonade and five tumbblers. The waiter brought them and stood some distance away to wait the proceedings. Sundry poured a little lemonade into each glass and then produced a large bag of pasties and gave each a piece. The waiter, who did not like to see this behavior in a high class restaurant and called the manager, who addressed Sundry thus:

"Do you know who I am?"

"No," replied Sundry.

"Oh, are you?" said Sundry. "Then why the deuce is the law 'no playing'?"

Excess.

"An indisposed servant had been discharged by her employer."

"Very well, mind," she said. "I'll be back for a reference for a reference."

"A reference," echoed the lady. "What reference can I honestly give such a worthless girl as you?"

Bridge-broke. "It's a civil thing for a man," she returned. "You kin say I lived with you four months. That'll be reference enough, mum."—New Orleans Times Democrat.

"It seems queer," remarked the thoughtful thinker, "that hammocks are used only in the summer."

"What's queer about it?" queried the dense person.

"The experience of the average man would lead him to believe they were built for the fall," explained the thoughtful thinker.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

FREE TO AUTHORS.

New Form of Phrases For the Use of Story Writers.

According to an exchange, Mr. Clemens deplores the too frequent use by story writers of such stock phrases as "replied Alfred, dipping the ash from his cigar," "responded Richard, with a laugh," "murmured Gladys, blushing."

We have done a good deal of deploring authors for the same line of thought, plus other inefficiencies of the English language, and at last it got so deplorable we sat up all one night trying to evolve new forms and have been eminently successful. We give them for what they are worth and hope to see the great array of American authors swing in line and help themselves till this batch is worn threadbare, when we trust, some other phrase monger will come to the front with a mass of new ones. No copyright on the following:

"Said Philip as he paused to polish his eyeglasses on the lace curtain."

"Said Samuel, slowly writing his name on his cuff."

"Said the burglar, pausing to build fire in the kitchen range for the housemaid ere he climbed out the pantry window, for morning was breaking in the east."

"Said Robert, the beautiful girl, peeling an orange he had taken from his pocket, as he paused for her reply."

"Said Mrs. Elley, unfolding her arms and holding them straight up in the air like a railroad signal."

"He responded, opening a can of sardines with his teeth as he awaited her answer."

"Said he, taking out his magnificent gold watch and with it hammering back a loose nail which protruded from the sofa on which they sat."

"Said the cop, taking a bundle of peanuts from his overcoat pocket and presenting them to Tony Connelly, the fruit stand man."

"Said the flurist as he threw in a dozen of cut roses and some choice rhododendrons with the three pink he young man was buying."

"Said the grocer as he tested the scales to see that they were absolutely correct."

"Twiddled she, playfully prying up cobblestones from the pavement with her dainty foot of her No. 2 shoe."

"Said he, savagely biting the center of a doughnut and swallowing it, seeds and all."

"Said he as he suddenly tore the pass into bits and, throwing a dollar before the astonished ticket seller, vowed he would pay his own fare."

"Said she, with a tremulous sob 'the that of a dying orphan.'"

No doubt there are many more such desirable forms which if we had time we might think up. But why not give some other fellow a chance?—Jack Robinson in Puck.

The Constable.

Oh, I am the foe of the auto man. And I stand on the road with a gun. And a racing car and a runaway are exactly the same to me.

Oh, I am the country constable. And the toughest chauffeur's dread. For he'll get to stop when I say the word. Or I'll puncture his tires with lead.

I laugh at a stretch from tree to tree. A rope for the flying car. And a take good care that the trap is laid for the things I hate like an.

For that is the way I get my rides in the things I hate like an.

When they look at my badge, you bet. They are glad to take me in.

Oh, what were the joys of Robin Hood in his good greenwood? And what was the lot of Claude Duval? To the ball and the line. And where in the sport with red or gun compared to the pride I feel when I capture an automobile?

Baptist Convention.

The provincial Convention of the Baptist of Alberta is convened on Thursday morning last after a most interesting and instructive session.
The Wednesday evening meeting was most interesting as also addresses were delivered by those prominent men of the province.
The first address was that of Rev. A. G. Baker, B. A., of Oxtokos, on "Foreign Missions." Mr. Baker is a returned missionary, having spent some years in Bolivia in the field. "Missions," said the speaker, "are the church's supreme business. They are neither an accident nor an incident in Christian life. The Church is the divinely appointed vehicle of the divine proclamation. For man enters the church was indifferent to her great obligation. Now all men see that the Moravians have perceived ever since their organization, that the churches chief concern must be to do right in the world. The contention among the Baptists at least, obtained which the speaker must regret, namely, the fact that three out of four of the churches do not realize fully enough their responsibility in the matter of foreign missions. To often the burden has been cast upon the women of the churches. This is a mistake and a grievous one too. The whole church must be interested, and the church which will not fulfil its mission courts earthly non-subsistence churches die. The few follow the pulpit. "To win from the laity that was slain, the reward of His suffering" this should be the battle cry of the whole church, and not of one section of it. The speaker did not like the phrase "foreign missions." It is geographical but not spiritual. It is not of Christ. There are only two positions those who are in Christ and those out of Him, and there is only one duty, namely, to lead those who know not Christ to find him. The Christ-centred church is the conquering church. This field is the world and nothing smaller.
The church must change its tactics if it would accomplish the evangelizing of a Godless world. Every department must work harmoniously. The church is now in a state of comparative rest. It must spring into active attitude at once if it would fulfill its divine mission.

MR. PROCTOR'S ADDRESS.
The second address of the evening was an exposition of the principles of the New Testament church, by the Rev. H. J. Proctor, of the Olivet church, Calgary.
"The church," said Mr. Proctor, "is a divine idea. It is the outgrowth of God's purpose that through a separated people He might reveal himself to the world. The Hebrew people had been chosen to be a holy or separate nation, that they might show forth the virtues of God. In like manner God was separating His church, that the knowledge of Himself might be brought to the entire world. The principles of the New Testament church are to be found clearly outlined in the New Testament. This is our rule of conduct, of doctrine and of duty. Here is revealed the pattern according to which we are to mould our individual and church life. To depart from the New Testament model is to forsake the thought of God for the device of men. A careful study of the New Testament reveals the following essentials of a New Testament church: It must be composed of regenerated members. What is true of the Kingdom of God is also true of the church of Jesus Christ. The new birth is a necessary qualification of entrance." Here Mr. Proctor introduced a quotation from Mr. Harold Begbie's "Vision." It is composed of baptized believers. Mr. Proctor here made a rapid yet thorough examination of the New Testament teaching on this point, showing conclusively that the uniform New Testament practice was that all entering the church should be baptized. Baptism, Mr. Proctor defined as immersion, quoting from eminent baptist authorities to sustain his point. The ordinances of the church are two, baptism and the Lord's Supper. Mr. Proctor saw no reason why the Lord's Supper should not be extended to all Christians.

The New Testament possesses a two-fold ministry; not popes, priests or laymen; not bishops, priests or deacons, but bishops and deacons. The New Testament church is independent and congregational in its government. This is essential to the fullest development of church life. It is liable, however, to abuses. Some times a church becomes oligarchical and then democratic. Mr. Proctor closed with a plea for a full recognition of the New Testament principles of religious liberty.

REV. F. W. PATTERSON.
"Our Business" was the theme of the Rev. F. W. Patterson's address. The speaker did not know why he chose this subject. He would not presume to stick too closely to it. We have conventions for the emphasizing of preaching, holiness, sociology and so forth. That these conventions are a sad commentary on our Christian life must be evident to all. The emphasis needed at this time should be placed on an efficient Christianity. The efficient life is the goal. A strenuous life may be a very inefficient life. Health and knowledge are only means to an end. In the Christian life what is needed is not "higher lifters," but heaven lifters. Men get on the mountain tops and forget their fellow in the valley. The speaker did not see that a holiness movement that centred in itself was movement of God. The emphasis should be placed upon a movement for holiness rather than on the holiness movement as such.

It is the Christian's business to lead an efficient life. This is brought about in several ways, and first of all an aim must be set. The church of God should have a clear cut idea as to what they are going to do. Details of the plans of the things aimed at will vary, yet in each case every energy should be expended towards the realization of some aim. The church of God is the Christian "Grace Darling" going out to save men. The church should be keen for business for God, and should seek to lead men to Christ. The great endeavor of the church should be to bring all men into fellowship with all the thoughts of God, whose thoughts seem to be bounded by the desire to bring men into harmony with Himself.

The essential of an efficient Christianity is that we insist upon the inwardness of true religion. Religion must first be a matter of heart before it can be a matter of conduct. A man must be right with Jesus Christ before he can do right to his fellow men. Mr. Patterson did not believe in the teaching of the Bible in public schools. He could not see how that divine book could be properly used as a text book nor had he any sympathy with the movement which would require the state aid. There was a field of legitimate service for denominational schools that are free from state control and are locally supported by the denomination.

A third essential of efficient Christianity is the use of every possible avenue of Christian effort. The Christian parent should be as willing to train and develop his children as the owner is to train and develop, for example, his race horse colt. The source of it is that the animal is more considered than the child. Our business is to reverse this. Intermittent evangelism has no place in the church's life. There are special times of awakening but the spirit of evangelism should always be upon the church. A river may waken at times but it flows on continually as a river. Opportunities are only half in the condition about us, the other half are within us. This difference distinguishes men. Every individual of the church should be a soul-winner. The work should not be left to the pastor. In closing his powerful address the speaker urged his hearers to do their best for God. The chief address of the evening was listened to attentively by the large audience assembled. Rev. H. Bryan's fine tenor voice was heard to good effect in a solo entitled "O List to the Voice." The audience joined him in singing "The Glory Song," which brought an interesting session to a close.

THURSDAY MORNING SESSION
The very profitable associational meeting was brought to a close this morning's session. The ministerial meeting first planned for this afternoon, was held at the same time as the ladies meeting yesterday. The chief matters for consideration were the discussion of winter evangelizing meetings in the various churches of the association. This change of program permitted the departure of the delegates this afternoon. It has been a practice of the associational sessions to devote the last half hour to devotional exercises. These have been well attended and have had much to do with the fine spirit shown throughout the many gatherings. Rev. W. S. Black had charge of this morning's devotional meeting and chose as his subject, "The holy spirit." Because of the deep interest in the theme the exercises extended far beyond the scheduled time.

The first item demanding the attention of the association was unfinished business. Various committees made their final reports. The "committee on resolutions" offered resolutions on the following: "The North West Baptist," "Education," "The Union movement," "Baptist and Deputies," "The Press," the local papers and the "Daily News" of Calgary. A resolution of sympathy to Rev. Alexander McDonald, "Moral and Temperance Reform," and to the Red Deer churches for their hospitality and many kindnesses.

The following new churches were received into the association: Heath, Olivet, and Scandinavian churches of Calgary; Synagogue Edmonton; Hawkeye, the Church of the Living, Angus Ridge, Killam, Innisfree, Vermillion and Frank.
The time and place of the next association was left to the program committee to decide.
The association, the Rev. H. J. Bryant, of Medicine Hat, was introduced by the retiring moderator and expressed his deep appreciation for the honor conferred upon him.
It was expected that the Rev. Jas. Black, of Calgary, would address the association on "Work from children on the Week night," and the Rev. T. J. Bennett of Calgary on "The young People's meeting," but both of the speakers were unavoidably absent and had not been more than taken up with business, their subjects were untouched. The Rev. F. W. Patterson brought the association to a close by pronouncing the benediction.

Now is Best Time to Take.

A well-known authority on Rheumatism gives the readers of a large New York daily paper the following valuable, yet simple and harmless prescription, which any one can easily prepare at home:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.
Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost, and, being of vegetable extraction, are harmless to take.

This pleasant mixture, if taken regularly for a few days, is said to overcome almost any case of Rheumatism. The pain and swelling, if any, diminishes with each dose, until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach. While there are many so-called Rheumatism remedies, patent medicines, etc., some of which do give relief, few really give permanent results, and the every will, no doubt, be greatly appreciated by many sufferers here at this time.

Inquiry at the drug stores of this neighborhood elicits the information that these drugs are harmless and can be bought separately, or the druggists here will mix the prescription for our readers if asked to.

THE ENGLISH JOURNALISTS.

The following article we clip from the "East Anglian Daily Times" Ipswich, regarding Red Deer, as a representative of the paper was one of the English Journalists who recently passed through Alberta on a tour of investigation:

It was very wet as we travelled North, and at Red Deer on the fine river of the same name, we could only take a perfunctory glance of the country from the railway station, where the usual deputation was waiting to meet us loaded with the products of the country side. Fine red wheat full in the ear, and abundant in straw, proved the value of the winter snow crop. Red Deer is a centre of mixed farming and must have a population of over two thousand while the town possesses many fine buildings. There is plenty of electric power to be developed from the river, and the town has its electric light and telephone systems. It is a convenient railway centre, and is well on the way to be the industrial and administrative metropolis of a wide area. The Board of Trade pushes the town well, and lets no opportunity slip of making it known. We did not stop at the township of Ponoka, but literature was handed to us to proclaim its merits. Seven years ago Ponoka was a flag station, with one small store and a railway water tank; now 500 people live and prosper there and supply the wants of a 30 miles radius. So many groves in the North west. Ponoka put on the rail last year 2,100 tons of timber, 160,000 bushels of wheat 273,000 pounds of butter, and so on. All this typical of the new and flourishing township.

Bill Nyo had the truth well told when he said: "A man may use a wart on the back of his neck for a collar button; ride on the back coach of a railway train to save interest on his money till the conductor gets round; stop his watch at night to save wear and tare; leave his 'I' or 'U' without a dot or cross to save ink; pasture his mother's grave to save corn; but a man of this sort is a gentleman and a scholar compared to the fellow that will take a newspaper two or three years and when asked to pay for it puts it into the office and has it marked refused."

THE BIG LAW SUIT.

Some Sidelines on the Saskatchewan Land Company's Fight for Possession of Lands around Red Deer.

The following report bearing on the trial of the Saskatchewan Land Company vs. The Leadley estate and John T. Moore, appeared in the Kingston News, and will be read with considerable interest by Red Deer citizens:

The fact that a number of citizens are interested for a very large amount in the court case known as the Saskatchewan Land Co. in the West and that the legal gentleman who has been leading in the fight for justice for them is Mr. A. B. Cunningham, has led the News to give the following details of this remarkable case which has now been settled by the decision of the court yesterday.

The Saskatchewan Land and Homestead Company Limited, was incorporated in 1883. The paid up capital was four hundred thousand dollars and by a special act of parliament passed the shareholders were enabled to surrender the stock and take lands. In this way by the year 1898 the capital stock was reduced to seventy-five thousand and at the last meeting of the shareholders held in 1898 the company had 70,000 acres of land on which there was a mortgage of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. No further meetings were held and the next the shareholders knew of the matter was in 1902 when the managing director sent out a circular that the company had been wound up and all lands had been transferred to the mortgagees.

Now comes the point of interest to Kingstonians who are proud of the man who had the energy, nerve and perseverance to pick off the thread of a tangle that it has taken years to unravel. Mr. Cunningham took it before nearly every judge on the bench, and has had it heard in every court of appeal. He saw at a glance the grave irregularities the circular contained and commenced investigating. He appealed to the shareholders for their support and in consequence formed a coalition of ninety per cent of the shareholders. In May, 1903, Mr. Cunningham issued a writ to have the transfer of the mortgages put aside and the case has been dragging ever since. Not till June, 1905, did it get to trial and it then took place at Toronto, before Judge Teetzel and lasted ten days. The judge dismissed the action without reserving judgment. Nevertheless, appeal went on and was first heard on February, 1906, before the Divisional Court. Unfortunately it lasted for a week and the argument was not concluded at the end. Before it could be resumed Judge Street was taken ill from which he never recovered. This necessitated a new hearing and Mr. Cunningham decided it should go before a court of appeal. This lasted four days and took place in April.

The Hon. S. H. Blake, K. C., and W. H. Blake, K. C., appeared for the defendants mortgagees, the Hon. Wallace Nesbit, K. C., and J. G. Russell Snow, K. C., appeared for defendant Moore, the managing director of the company, and A. B. Cunningham for the company.

Yesterday the Court of Appeal gave unanimous judgment, directing that the company be entitled to redeem the lands and the mortgagees must hand over the lands on payment of the amount of their claim. It appears in the year 1903 Moore, the managing director of the company, entered into an agreement with the mortgagees that he, himself, was to secure the full amount for which the land should be sold, and above the mortgagee's claim. The court held that he was the servant of the company and trustee for the company of all rights required by him. Under that agreement Moore took active part in arranging the transfer of land to the mortgagees; but at the same time was negotiating with them for his agreement on his own behalf. Since the lands were transferred to the mortgagees in 1902 they have sold forty thousand acres almost sufficient to pay off their claims. There remains about thirty thousand acres of choice lands situated at Red Deer, Alberta, and these lands are all located within six miles of the railway and most valuable. The Kingston shareholders are Mr. A. B. Cunningham, Dr. W. G. Anglin, Dr. R. E. Sparks, and Mr. W. B. Skinner.

Moore who figured so prominently in the case is a member for the Provincial Parliament for Red Deer. It is considered by high officials of the law that the case is the hardest fought fight in the courts of law for over ten years and Kingstonians are justly proud of the man whose ability won the case. He is a man of high character and whose example should be a guide to the shareholders to the amount of a quarter of a million dollars. Mr. Cunningham was very modest over his triumph of justice and accepted the congratulations of his friends as if it was a very minor affair, but the constant ringing of the telephone and the dropping in of the mess men to shake him by the hand told in part what we think of him.

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION.

Fortena, Ind., Oct. 15.—Fortena was practically destroyed today by the explosion of the plant of the Dupont Powder company. The dead number eighty.

More than 600 persons were injured and every building in the town was wholly and partially levelled to the ground. Where stood a thriving and busy town of 1,000 people this morning, tonight there is only ruin and scattered wreckage. The dead and seriously injured have been taken away. Five hundred inhabitants, however, are still unaccounted for, remain to gather their scattered household goods and sleep under tents and cots guarded by soldiers of the state.

Without warning the powder mills, seven in number, blew up at 6.15 this morning. They employed 200 men, and of these 150 of them were at work when the explosion in the press mill occurred. In quick succession the glazing mill, the two coining mills and the powder magazine blew up, followed by the cap mill. In the magazine, situated several hundred yards from the mills, were stored 40,000 kegs of powder.

THE REV. DR. POTTS DIED IN TORONTO.

Toronto, Oct. 16.—The death of Rev. John Potts occurred this morning at his residence in Toronto after a lingering illness covering several months. For the last week he was totally unconscious and remained in that state until death called him.

The Rev. John Potts has been for many years one of the leaders of the Methodist church of the Dominion, at the time of his death being secretary of the educational fund of the church.

ANCIENT TRICKSTERS.

Quaker Conjurors Feats of the Seventeenth Century.

SOME QUAIN OLD RECIPES.

Little Experiments in Which Boiling Heads Off Living Animals Was an Incident—How They Killed a Horse and Cured Him Again.

Conjurors in ancient times were not very respectable members of society. When successful they enjoyed the reputation of having sold their souls to the evil one, and when of inferior ability they gained notoriety by being either drowned or burned. The medieval magicians as well as the Egyptian magi and the Chaldean sages were only a strange mixture of charlatan, conjurer and charlatan, and as these gentlemen were in the habit of using their supposed occult powers to their own advantage they were naturally unpopular. The feats of jugglery performed by these craftsmen were intended for the mystification and not the amusement of the public, and for centuries conjuring had to it only a black side.

The amateur conjurer of today is not always a popular individual, save with children and the unsophisticated yokels. To the general public he is merely a low or a high grade of juggler, whose performance is so obvious as to deceive no one. It is hard to realize that this person is no mere unscrupulous growth of modern society, but in point of fact his role is one of a respectable antiquity, for he is to be found tracing close upon the heels of the magicians and in the days when witchcraft was still rampant. This is significant of his reputation even in those early times, for had any one seen his tricks seriously he would doubtless have been run to earth and done to death as a wizard.

In the outline of the seventeenth century, in the earliest years of the restoration, a number of tricks were published in one of those facetious books which have occupied the pens to a great extent at this time, but which owing to their popularity have for the most part perished. The chief recommendation of the greater number of these tricks is that no apparatus beyond the utensils of everyday life, is necessary; also it is suggested to the performer that he can make some small profit out of his entertainment by prevailing on his audience to bet with him on the result of the trick.

"To set a horse's or an ass's head upon a man's head and shoulders" seems a horrible act of the kind of Feary, but we are informed that by boiling the head off a living animal "the flesh body" may run into eyes, and then by submerging the hair beaten into powder with this oil and anointing the heads of the standers-by "they shall cease to have horses or asses" a costly experiment and therefore successful. But besides this, one can "make people people themselves" a costly experiment and therefore successful. "Break arsenic very fine and boyle it with sulphur in a covered pot till it is as thick as candle, and when the standers-by will seem to be headless." Doubtless a strong imagination is necessary for success.

Some of the tricks are so such as would nowadays cause the performer to be dislaid, to put it mildly. For instance, "have a nut filled with hulk and give this unto another and bid him crack it and see what he can find in that," which being done "will cause much laughter."

"To keep a Tapeter from frothing his pots" must have been an amusement to the wags of the period, and for this we have to resuscitate the story of a rood Hering, and when the Tapeter is absent do but rub a little on the inside of his pots, and he will not be able to do them, do what he can, in a good while after."

"To counterfeit a diamond with a white sapin" is a most useful accomplishment, but it is likely to be discovered and is more a chemical experiment than a trick.

Several tricks are recommended which have animals as their subject and are for the most part brutal to our modern ears. Perhaps the least objectionable is "to sear to kill a horse and cure him again," which may be thus accomplished:

Take the head of a horse and give it the Horse in his Provender, and it will cast him into such a deep sleep that he will seem dead. If you will recover him again, rub his Nostrils with Vinegar, and he will seem to be revived. The "seem to be revived" sounds rather ominous, and it is to be noted that the correct quantity of benzene is not mentioned, so that it might be best to make this experiment on some one else's horse.

"To make a shawl of Goslings draw a 'Timber logge' sounds interesting, but unfortunately the directions are vague. "To make a shawl of Goslings or a Gaggie of these to seem to draw a 'Timber logge' is done by the vertie means that is, use when a Cat draws out of a hole a Puss, but handled somewhat further off from the Be holders."—London Standard.

What the Hydra Was.

There have been many strange things in English history. One of the most curious was recently mentioned by a little schoolboy.

"The hydra," said this much informed young person, "was married to Hen A. N. N. When she was laid off, another one sprang right up."—Youth's Companion.

perhaps you would like to have a home, and not only "love her" but become a homelover.

don't think that it will take a mountain of gold to furnish a home. if that is the only thing that stands in your way, you and that best girl just get together and figure out what you need.

go to A. B. PURDY, who is closing out his business and will sell at reduced prices.

MRS. NELLIE SNYDER-SMITH.

She Sells Bricks and is a Composer of Good Music.

Of all the things pursued followed by women, none perhaps is more out of the line with feminine instincts than selling brick and building material. Yet Mrs. Nellie Snyder-Smith has built a business which now runs over $200,000 a year.

And she started eight years ago with four bricks.

The four bricks were samples which her husband had used in the business.

She preserves flowers by placing them in weak camphor water. She keeps colored socks and stockings from fading by soaking them overnight in tepid water with a cup of turpentine has been added.

She uses salt to remove the stain made by eggs on silver.

She takes the trouble to examine all of the canned goods that she buys. If the cans bulge outward, it is a sure sign that they have not been properly sealed and that air has gotten in.

She improves the flavor of her coffee by adding a pinch of salt.

She keeps a box of borax in her kitchen and adds a little to the water when she is boiling out enameled saucepans to cleanse them perfectly.

She keeps water pipes clear by dissolving one pound of potash in one quart of water. Just before retiring she pours the mixture into the waste pipe of the sink.

For Stained Floors.

Hardwood floors, or soft ones repainted, more than repay constant care by the look of that part not covered by rugs. When all covering is removed, however, for warm weather, it becomes of the utmost importance that the boards shall be kept in the best possible condition; otherwise the whole room will look untidy or old.

A common fault with stains in cleaning floors of either soft or hardwood is in wetting a larger portion at a time than can be dried with a cloth before it soaks into the wood.

In the latter case it will be streaked and never take the same polish afterward that one will when dried by hand.

In cleaning there should always be three cloths, one for washing, the second for drying and the third for the final going over. The second rapidly becomes damp. Afterward the condition of the wood will be much improved for the final work if wiped with kerosene, but the least possible quantity of oil should be used. This is not itself a polish, but it is to prepare the wood for the final polish.

A floor should never be waxed without first dusting and removing any spots. If the wood is faded in places, rubbing with a preparation of seven ounces of boiled linseed oil and one ounce of alcohol will help to bring back the color, but the application must be made with a brush and rubbed thoroughly. Grease spots, of course, will come out with an application of good soap water, but this wash must be well taken off at once, as soap dries the gloss finish. When such a stain is well dried, rub the spot with linseed oil mixture given above and wax.

Waxing a soft or stained floor is a particular piece of work that depends much for success upon the quickness with which it is done. The wax should be melted in a warm bath and a flannel cloth used to put it on. The application should be made with a little flannel cloth and worked rapidly and hard to get it spread evenly over the surface before hardening or absorption begins. Polish again with a dry flannel. The whole floor should be gone over in sections, rubbing with the grain of the wood. It will be well to finish at the door, so that one may leave the room without walking through it and leaving tracks. A soft foot stashed should not be stepped on for twenty-four hours.

A waxed finished floor should never be washed, the cleaning consisting of dusting first and, when necessary, wiping with a flannel cloth wet in turpentine. Waxing should be done immediately afterward. One part of the floor may be waxed without doing all by polishing the spot, afterward rubbing, especially at the edges, until the color goes into that already there.

When Traveling With Young Baby.

For the general good of the public as well as her own comfort and that of the baby a mother should know the necessities to take for an infant when going on a journey. One has only to notice a drawing room car or sleeper when traveling to see how frequently somebody's small child is making the passengers uncomfortable by its despairing shrieks. To avoid this annoyance the first consideration is food. If the journey is to be for more than several hours, prepared gruels, milk, etc., must be taken along. Even though milk could be obtained from the car buffet or station, it is not safe to give this to baby, for his regular routine must be broken as little as possible. It is well that a child who is to travel should have some of the food to be eaten on the journey, so that he is not at least a week before the journey, so that he will be accustomed to it and not made sick by the change at such a time.

Of course, if he has been taking modified milk or other prepared foods the same thing may be continued. Modified milk may be sterilized as usual before the journey.

It is generally safer in a sleeper to rely upon the porter to keep the bottles of food on ice than to rely on the sweet. While there are most convenient little traveling baskets now, with ice compartments, these are a nuisance and to be left behind when possible. A little alcohol lamp must be carried to heat the food to a proper temperature. It is well when possible to have this food in bottles that may be thrown away after using, thus reducing one's hand luggage.

Pure milk may keep a long time—long enough for a journey across the continent—if it is properly prepared. The process consists in rapid chilling after sterilizing and putting into sterilized and sealed jars. This, if put on ice and kept there, should be sweet for five or six days.

It is never safe to start away with a baby for a journey of any length without taking an enemy tag, for it may be needed.

A great saving in hand luggage, always a nuisance at best, may be made by substituting oil linen for diapers when traveling. All old soft table linen should be saved for this purpose, and cut into pieces of the usual size.

No infant should be allowed to use the blankets provided in the sleeping car. He should always have his own if he is to sleep through a night, thus saving him from a chance of contagion.

One Woman's Way.

Sending Linen to Laundry.

Here are a few good rules for sending linen to the laundry. Articles should be legibly marked with full name in either cotton or ink. Marked pieces the letters will show when the piece is folded or fresh ironed clothes will be tumbled in the search for the distinguishing sign.

Look in pockets carefully before sending out. Old socks and stockings should be sent inside out. For the sake of common humanity, be sure that no pins remain anywhere. Use rust proof hooks and eyes. Metal clothes before sending or they will come back in much worse condition. The handkerchiefs in a bundle by themselves, and of all bundles and detachable buttons and even any very valuable buttons already sewed on.

For Old Mahogany.

To restore color to old mahogany the following preparation has been used with success. It is made as follows: Add half an ounce of alkali root, cut into small bits, to a pint of linseed oil when the mixture has stood for a week add an ounce of powdered gum arabic and one ounce of shellac varnish.

Let these stand in a bottle near a heat stove for a few days. Wash the wood with slightly soapy water, rinse, wipe dry and polish with the preparation, using soft wool or a chamois skin.

UPTON SCLAIR'S MENU.

It Doesn't Appeal to Epicures, but He Vouches For Its Efficiency.

In view of the widespread interest manifested these days in the perplexing question of dietetics the following communication of Upton Sinclair, author, to the New York Times is submitted for consideration and comment:

Appropos of your discussion of Probus business men I am glad to present the following sample of the regimen which has proved proper for a man of twenty-eight who weighs 130 pounds and works fairly hard:

Breakfast (8 a. m.) One cup of oatmeal (not too hot) Half a dozen uncooked prunes. Four one inch cubes of butter. One lamb chop, or plate of soup. One small potato.

One cup of uncooked oatmeal. Two all wheat wheat bread. Four one inch cubes of butter. One saucer of rice pudding, custard or fruit.

Supper (6 p. m.) Saucer of bread and butter. Saucer of uncooked cereal and cream. Saucer of fruit and cream.

Three times of this sort cheerfully and slowly put away will absolutely cure dyspepsia, headache and constipation. If the person who eats much meat and fat food, and who makes many open, take a cold bath in the morning and play some outdoor game. If the body is too fat, it is necessary to reduce the food, and to eat more of the leaner meats, such as fish, poultry, and game, and to eat more of the fruits, such as apples, pears, and grapes, and to eat more of the vegetables, such as carrots, celery, and spinach, and to eat more of the nuts, such as almonds, walnuts, and pecans, and to eat more of the seeds, such as flaxseed, and to eat more
